Elba mayor joins Alabama Mayors Challenge to increase COVID-19 vaccinations statewide

Elba Mayor Tom Maddox has joined more than 40 other Alabama mayors in the "We Can Do This Alabama Mayors' Challenge," a statewide effort to get a 20-percent increase in vaccinations by Sept. 6, Labor Day.

"With COVID-19 cases and hospitalizations dramatically increasing in our state, we are calling on everyone in a leadership position to help us fight this virus," said Dr. Donald Williamson, president of the Alabama Hospital Association, and speaking on behalf of the We Can Do This Alabama Coalition. "At this point it is about sharing information on a personal level, encouraging those with hesitation to talk with their doctor and other vaccinated friends and family members. We know that our mayors are trusted and respected in their communities, and we are extremely grateful for those who are stepping up to help."

As of Aug. 10, according to ADPH reports, 34 percent of Alabamians have been fully vaccinated. That's approximately 1.7 million of a population of 5.8 million. Alabama's vaccination rate in late July was reported as the lowest in the nation. Alabama likes to be #1, not #51!

"There are many people who have reservations about taking the vaccination. I understand and appreciate that, but we really need to get this pandemic under control, and I believe vaccinations are the best way to do that right now," Mayor Maddox said. "An NPR program recently made the observation that we don't know the long term effects of the vaccine, but neither do we know the long term effects of COVID. What we do know is that many who have the virus have been extremely sick and many have died from it."

Local hospitalization and death reports seem to follow national trends, indicating that those who have been vaccinated are less likely to become seriously ill or die from the illness.

Some data that verifies that claim, includes:

unvaccinated people. Roughly 10-17% of admissions are among vaccinated people, according to one of their doctors.

- Tri-County Health in Colorado says those who are not fully vaccinated against COVID-19 account for the majority of new cases in their region. Some 95% of the COVID patients hospitalized in Adams, Arapahoe and Douglas counties are not fully vaccinated.

- The Indiana State Health Department said Hoosiers who are unvaccinated make up 98% of the current COVID-19 cases in ANOTHER WRECK AT HIGHWAY 84/141 INTERSECTION IN CURTIS COMMUNITY.—Around 12:30 p.m. Friday, Aug. 13, the intersection of U.S. Highway 84 and Alabama Highway 141 claimed two more vehicles with yet another wreck occurring at the intersection. This wreck involved a small SUV (shown above) and a small car. While the SUV came to a stop in the roadway, the car was pushed off the roadway and came to a stop in the right-of-way nearby. Both vehicles suffered significant damage, but, fortunately, no injuries resulted from this crash. This intersection continues to be a 'hotspot' for automobile wrecks and has been since the new four-way opened for U.S. Highway 84. Over the years, the state highway department has added speed strips and flashing lights to the stop signs on Hwy. 141 to try and warn motorists to be careful as they approach the Hwy. 84 intersection. Unfortunately, wrecks have continued despite these attempts. Emergency personnel with the Elba Fire Department, Enterprise Rescue, and Coffee County Sheriff's Department assisted at the scene of this wreck last Friday afternoon. The wreck was investigated by Alabama State Troopers.

Unusual circumstances lead to tragic accident

An accident Saturday morning, Aug. 14, in Elba turned tragic.

Just prior to 8 a.m. Saturday morning a chain of events led to a Claxton Avenue resident being seriously injured. The female victim later died at a hospital where she was being treated for injuries sustained.

Reportedly, a truck was traveling south on Claxton Avenue at the same time a tree fell on a power line on Whitman Street. This led to guide wires along Claxton hanging low enough to be pulled down even more by traffic. Lines reportedly somehow got wrapped around the tire of the truck traveling south on Claxton, where at some point the wires snapped and wrapped around the legs of the female victim in the yard of her residence. Elba Police say she was pulled into the roadway.

Emergency personnel arrived on scene a short time later and the victim was transported from the scene to a hospital for treatment. Unfortunately, she succumbed to the injuries Saturday afternoon.

This photo looks onto Whitman Street from Claxton Avenue in Elba. On the right side of the photo (in the right of way) a tree trunk is laying on the ground. This is a portion of the tree that fell last Saturday morning causing a chain of events that led to the injury and eventual death of a Claxton Avenue resident. Various utility crews have been on scene at different times since the accident repairing damages caused by this unusual incident.

Elba City Clerk notes annual levee inspection postponed due to COVID

During her report to Elba City Council members Monday evening, Aug. 9, city clerk Sally Bane noted the annual levee inspection that had been scheduled by the Army Corp of Engineers had been postponed due to COVID.

Bane said the Army Corp of Engineers has returned to working from home again due to the increases in COVID cases, therefore, the levee inspection that was to have taken place recently did not. She said the Corp of Engineers would reschedule that inspection as soon as employees are allowed to return to public work again.

Council member Gappa Wise asked if trash pickup around the city was behind, and Bane said it was as of the Aug. 9th council meeting.

Bane said one truck was down for repairs, and two employees – one with the trash truck and one with the garbage truck – had just returned to work last week after being out due to COVID. With the return of those two employees, she said she felt the trash pickup would improve.

Bane said the employees working on trash pickup had been working overtime to help get things caught back up as soon as possible.

Regarding the recreation department, the city clerk said football and cheer practices are in full swing. She said the season would begin for these youth sports on Saturday, Sept. 11, during a jamboree event.

The next Elba City Council meeting will be Monday, Aug. 23, at 5:30 p.m. These meetings are open to the public to attend.

From Coffee County Jail Records...

According to Coffee County Jail records, Elba Police arrested Hannah Broadway, age 26, of Elba Saturday, Aug. 14, for multiple drug offenses.

Broadway was charged with DUI [any substance], possession of marijuana – second degree, misdemeanor possession of drug paraphernalia, and possession of a controlled substance. She was released on bond Sunday, Aug. 15.

The bond total, combining all charges, was $10,500.

Jail records also showed earlier this week that Dominique Trice, age 31, of Elba, was booked into the jail on Sunday, Aug. 15, after an arrest made by Enterprise Police. Trice was charged with four counts of unlawful breaking and entering of a vehicle, felon registration card required, certain persons forbidden to possess a firearm, and parole violation.

He remained an inmate at the Coffee County Jail as of press time this week.

Elba Tigers show pride in their community

Several members of the Elba Tigers football team were out and about last Saturday morning, Aug. 14, in downtown Elba giving back to the community by picking up trash. This is a community service project started last year by Elba football coach Marc Sieving to allow his players to show their pride for community by doing something to help improve the overall appearance of the city. Coach Sieving said the community always supports the Tigers, and this is just a small way the football program can give back. Above, the players stand in front of the old high school façade at Tiger Town Park in the downtown area with several large of the bags of trash they picked up Saturday morning. The Tigers begin the 2021 football season this Friday night, Aug. 20, when they travel to Daleville to take on the Warhawks. Kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

BRAINSTORMS

With Ferrin Cox

"One child, one teacher, one pen and one book can change the world." - Malala Yousafzai

Alabama's children are back in school and hopefully will stay healthy throughout the year. As always, we urge the driving public to be especially watchful for children who might dart out into the street. Also watch the school buses and remember the flashing red lights on that bus are to remind each of us to STOP and do not pass a stopped bus loading or unloading students.

The epidemic of misinformation surrounding the COVID-19 vaccines has contributed to the tragic loss of life for an untold number of our fellow citizens. This false stuff spreads just as fast, or faster, than the virus. Rumors and incorrect information have convinced far too many to remain unvaccinated (or gave them an excuse). Alabama has the distinction of being the least vaccinated state in America. That isn't something any of us should be proud of . . . the consequences have been, and continue to be, devastating.

Well since last week's writing of Brainstorms we have lost a first cousin in Mobile to COVID and found out that a niece, her husband and son in Florida have been hit with the virus. Both man and wife went to hospital and husband has at least two more weeks there and up to three months before back to anything resembling 'normal' due to COVID and other medical issues. Niece spent ten days in hospital but is home in bed now. It is modern medicine that has kept her husband alive! Oh, the cousin HAD been vaccinated but three bouts with cancer and other ongoing medical issues out ranked the vaccine's work. Pneumonia set in after she got off the oxygen machine. The others had NOT had the shots. Their plans are now to get the shots ASAP. Our thoughts are they are lucky, and should be grateful, to get a second chance! The Elba area has had several people in recent days who were not so lucky and died from COVID. Remember them and their families in your prayers.

Don't let vaccine hesitancy become vaccine regret. Ask questions from respected medical sources and get the facts.

President Biden made a good point Monday when he said something like "Afghanistan leaders fled the country and the military, with all the years of training and the military equipment the U. S. had given them, surrendered almost without a fight, and that itself is proof that it was time for the U. S. to get out of the country." The pros and cons of that statement can be argued for eons but folks it brings back images of the U. S. exit from Vietnam. America spent billions in both places, had thousands of good young men and women killed and many more left with physical and mental issues that will control them for the rest of their lives. That is one heck of a price to pay with so little to show for our efforts.

We also noted that the Chinese are laughing at the U. S. exit from Afghanistan and loudly ramping up their quarrel with Formosa by telling the government not to depend on the Americans to defend them. It is probably very effective thoughts.

High School football fans can begin their weekly trip to the stadium Friday night when the teams begin their weekly battles on the gridiron. The Elba Tigers will open their season in Daleville Friday night. Kinston meets Houston Academy and New Brockton battles Cottonwood. Zion Chapel was scheduled for a jamboree with Florida but it was cancelled.

Be safe, wear your mask, social distance and wash your hands AND get the shot(s)!

Guest Editorial written by Alabama Secretary of State

A growing number of left-leaning political activists and thinkers are proposing that Democrats should legalize non-citizen voting in a purely political power grab. In America, voting is one of our most sacred privileges as U.S. citizens and playing partisan games with our voting laws will weaken the integrity of our elections. Even setting aside the problematic motivations of non-citizen voting, the political, cultural, and public policy effects of non-citizen voting would prove equally problematic. The idea of non-citizen voting on its face seems to be an outlandish proposal and something similar would never be allowed in other segments of American life.

Let me ask you, would it make sense for the local Catholic parish to allow the neighboring Baptist church membership to select their next priest? Should the Lions Club membership select the next president of the Rotary Club? Should the Auburn University administration decide who coaches The University of Alabama's football team? The obvious answer to all three questions is absolutely not, even though the Auburn faithful may like that idea. If we would not allow similar actions in these instances, then we should not allow non-citizens to decide the leaders of our nation, or even our local communities. Expanding the electorate to include non-citizens would weaken the public's faith in both election security and integrity at a time when we need to reassure Americans that our elections are both safe and secure.

As we are all aware, our electoral institutions are in a fragile and delicate position following recent events, and radically altering a bedrock principle such as citizen voting would be disastrous. Non-citizen voting reduces the public's faith in secure elections and burdens local authorities with administering elections with no ability to verify the immigration status of some prospective voters. Non-citizen voting could even have effects on our nation's immigration system, by disincentivizing the naturalization process which has successfully integrated millions of immigrants into the broader American identity.

Many Alabamians would disagree with the assertion made by non-citizen voting advocates that it is "just good civics" to radically alter the long-established traditions of citizen voting and naturalization. The naturalization process is greatly incentivized by the fact that new citizens are officially accepted into our political community and have earned the privilege to shape our nation's future through voting. Nationalized citizens must take an oath to the U.S. Constitution, and they have shown they are dedicated to learning about our institutions, laws, and political culture. The naturalization process serves as an essential, shared experience for millions of past and present immigrants to the U.S. In comparison, non-citizens do not have this same shared experience nor have they shown the same verifiable degree of dedication to understanding and joining our national community. It is not "good civics" to allow legal residents to vote before they receive a proper education in our political culture. Non-citizen voting advocates point to instances of non-citizen voting in U.S. history to justify their present-day proposals, but they fail to put non-citizen voting in its proper historical context.

Non-citizen voting disappeared long ago because it outlived its usefulness and justifications. In the early days of our republic, the idea of a national citizenship or identity had not fully developed, and it was not until the well into the 1800s that state citizenship started to slowly give way to the idea of national citizenship. Even before this period, many states that allowed non-citizen voting required that aliens declare their intentions to become citizens, and some even required oaths to the U.S. Constitution. Unsurprisingly, at the beginning of the 20th century, as our national identity became centered around a set of collective ideals and principles of what it meant to be an American citizen, non-citizen voting disappeared from our political culture.

If the goal is to increase voter participation, then non-citizen voting is not the correct answer. In Alabama, since taking office on January 19, 2015, we have registered 1,890,152 new voters and as it stands today we have 3,599,224 registered voters in this state. 96% of eligible African American residents are registered, 91% of eligible White residents are registered, and 94% of all eligible residents in this state are registered to vote. To increase voter participation, you don't irrationally expand the electorate; instead you make it easier to vote and harder to cheat. In Alabama, we have worked hard to both streamline voter registration and ensure the security of our elections. Consequently, we have broken records for participation in every election since January 2016. This is the model that should be replicated throughout the country to increase participation and representation as opposed to partisan power grabs.

Our republic is the envy of the world for both its ability to hold safe and secure elections, as well as its ability to integrate newcomers, and non-citizen voting would further jeopardize both of these cherished traditions.

Editor's Note: Cuzin Lou Lou's tales are to be enjoyed as a light-hearted form of Southern expression Cuzin Lou Lou and Sister let Papa tag along last Saturday morning for their weekly breakfast trip... Lou Lou and Sister each have their favorite spots for this outing.

Lou Lou agreed to go to Sister's place of choice this time since they had been to Lou Lou's spot several times lately! Lou Lou will agree that Sister's choice is tasty as well, but she still prefers her spot!

Papa doesn't really care which place the two choose...he just wants to eat!

Usually after breakfast, the Lou Lou and Sister head out and get a little shopping in before returning home. They ventured out to Wally World last Saturday, and it did not take long to remember why Papa is usually left at home for the shopping.

Upon entering the World of Wally [Lou Lou is not a fan of shopping at this place, but Sister forces her to go from time to time], Sister allowed Papa to take reign of the shopping cart. That was a mistake!

Papa gets in no hurry when he is strolling the isles of a shopping place, especially one where he can find 'toys' that interest him to look at too. Prior to getting to the store, Papa had told Lou Lou he needed some eye drops, so, the two head in that direction while Sister goes to get some things she needs in the same area of the store.

Lou Lou was already getting frustrated with Papa for navigating the shopping cart like a turtle, but she really had to take a deep breath when, after getting the eye drops and heading in another direction, Papa tells her he also needs one of his vitamins. Those were on the same aisle as the eyedrops, just the other side of the aisle.

Lou Lou gets Papa to turn the cart around, and they head back. There were other folks shopping for vitamins too, but Papa didn't seem to notice that as he kept telling Lou Lou what she should be looking for to grab. She had to tell him to calm his little turtle moving horse a bit, that she was waiting for the others to get their items and then she would grab his!

Once that task was handled, Lou Lou 'politely' told Papa to take the cart and go find him something he liked to look at while she and Sister continued their shopping tasks. A short time later, Lou Lou had an armful of items for little Bean and she needed to put them in the cart. She located Sister and asked her if she had seen Papa lately, but she had no idea where he had ventured off to nor what he was doing.

Lou Lou called his mobile phone, and he was in the vacuum cleaner section "just looking" at things. Knowing there was no need to purchase a vacuum cleaner on this day, Lou Lou asked Papa to meet her and Sister in the aisle near the grocery section of the Wally World.

Lou Lou and Sister watched Papa as he made his way up the aisle to meet them. Still in his turtle mode, he was looking left and right all the way as he moved. The two chuckled the whole time they watched his progress!

As soon as Papa reached Lou Lou and Sister, he wanted to "show and tell" on the items he had found and placed in the shopping cart. So, Lou Lou told him to move into the nearby side aisle so they would not be blocking other people.

After Papa explained his need to purchase said items, he realized the next stop was the grocery section...he quickly let Lou Lou and Sister know he would return to the front of the store, find somewhere to sit down, and be waiting there when they were ready to go. And, he was!!

Lou Lou and Sister had a couple other stops they had discussed making before returning home, but Wally World with Papa helped them decide those stops could wait until another day! Once they got the items loaded in the the car, Lou Lou made a mad dash for home!!

She needs extra anxiety meds for those type trips in the future, or, at least, more coffee at breakfast!!

Just another day in the lives of the Yonder gang...

Until next time...God Bless and Keep Smiling!

ALEA: Safety Rules for Back-to-School

As students head back to school, family life can become extremely busy.

The Alabama Law Enforcement Agency (ALEA) encourages all citizens to take a moment and share important safety reminders with their children and loved ones.

ALEA's Secretary Hal Taylor said, "The beginning of the school year is an exciting time for many; however, we encourage all motorists to be mindful and aware of school buses and overall safety concerns in school zones. After a summer of driving without school bus drop-offs and pick-ups, or groups of children walking to and from school, motorists often forget the challenges that may arise while driving in or near school zones. Preparation and patience are two key principles that, when implemented correctly, help to ensure a safe and successful year for everyone when traveling to and from your destinations."

ALEA encourages all parents to sit down with their children and discuss safety prior to the first day, which is particularly important for 16-year-old students who recently have obtained their driver licenses and plan to drive themselves to school for the first time. In addition, parents and their young drivers should review Alabama's Graduated Driver License (GDL) law and fully understand the restrictions.

ALEA urges everyone to use the following tips with their young drivers:

- Make trial runs to school and back prior to the first day of school to familiarize the new driver with the best route, and possibly determine at least one alternate route.
- Expect heavier traffic and leave home early.
- Obey speed limits and other rules of the road.
- Do not drive while distracted by cell phone, stereo, passengers or anything else that takes your eyes off the road.
- Buckle up no matter how short the trip - and make sure all occupants in the vehicle have buckled up.
- Remember Alabama's GDL restricts 16-year-old drivers from having more than one non-family member in the vehicle when driving.

The agency also reminds everyone to promote safety throughout the school year by following these tips:

- Slow down and be alert, particularly in areas near school zone
- In a school zone with blinking flashers, stop and yield to pedestrians cross the crosswalk or at an intersection.

- Never pass a vehicle that has stopped for pedestrians.
- Students should only cross a street at a crosswalk or designated intersection once they make eye contact with drivers and are certain the vehicles will stop.
- Watch out for children on bicycles and leave 3 feet between your vehicle and the cyclist when passing them.
- Watch for bikes coming down driveways or from behind vehicles parked on the street.
- Do not load or unload children across the street from the school - unless instructed to do so.
- Be aware of school bus stops and drive cautiously in the area, preparing to stop quickly should a child dart out into the street.
- Consider working with other parents to designate an adult to supervise children at the bus stop each morning.

Comfort Foods, Scientifically Proven During Times of Grief
People handle seasons of grief in different ways - and one area where you see that quite clearly is in their relationship to food. When faced with a loss, some individuals essentially stop eating, needing to be reminded by their family members to get three healthy meals a day. This is a normal response to grief. However, the opposite scenario is just as common, and just as normal: Many of us turn to food to provide us with comfort, craving calories as a way of dealing with complicated emotions.

Believe it or not, the concept of "comfort food" comes with scientific backing. The important thing to know is that foods rich in fat content, sugar, or salt tend to stimulate the brain's reward center; they can produce a temporary "high," a temporary yet noteworthy elevation of mood.

That's why, when you're feeling down or depressed, it can be tempting to reach for a chocolate shake, a candy bar, or a bag of chips. These foods really do make you feel better, at least in the short term.

Of course, there are a couple of problems. One is that these foods are not especially healthy—and while there's certainly nothing wrong with splurging every now and again, you don't want to develop habits that will compromise your physical well-being.

Additionally, comfort food can become a tool for self-medication—and while it effectively minimizes feelings of sadness, it doesn't offer a constructive way to cope or to heal. The worst-case scenario is that comfort foods take the place of most meaningful therapies, like talking about your grief with a close friend or with a counselor.

Keep all of this in mind as you reach for those comfort foods. You're not crazy to think that they work - but that doesn't necessarily mean

Zion Chapel Bass Team represented by two two-man fishing teams at national competition

The Zion Chapel Bass Team finished its second season in high style. By qualifying for NATIONALS, the team met its goal for the second year as a team.

Two of the four ZCBT two-man fishing teams qualified. Team Avery Padgett/Ethan Young qualified by placing fifth in the state championship tournament, and team Kaleb DeVos/Kevin Dowdy finished 18th in the BASSMASTER open tournament.

This was no easy feat, nor is it something that happens for every angler! They were among the few anglers from ALABAMA who made it to the big stage. They competed with the best of the best. ALABAMA was one of 43 states competing at NATIONALS.

The National BASSMASTERS High School Championship Tournament was on Lake Chicamauga, Tennessee. This lake has become known as "The Land of the Giants" for largemouth bass; it is rated as the second-best fishing lake in the U.S. by BASSMASTER MAGAZINE.

Located in southeast Tenn., Lake Chicamauga is a TVA impoundment on the upper end of the Tennessee River. The lake was created upon completion of the Chicamauga Dam in 1940 and named after the Chicamauga tribe of Cherokees who used to call this area home.

The anglers were allowed to practice fish for three days and to explore this lake which stretches miles long with a shoreline of 810 miles. It afforded many promising fishing spots.

With 307 boats from 43 states on the water, the competition was tough. Although the ZCBT anglers did not make the cut at the end of the second day of tournament fishing, they accomplished their goal for the year: make it to NATIONALS. Not only did the two ZC teams put their small community and school on the map, the ZCBT has brought attention to both by placing in several tournaments in their short two-year appearance and by bringing home hardware and scholarship money.

The spokesperson for the Alabama BASS Nation High School said he was proud of the anglers who represented the state of Alabama. According to him, they were all champions by their character, sportsmanship, fishing skills, and their passion for this great sport.

Plans are now under way for season three. Zion Chapel will have three teams in the race for 2021-2022. The three teams will include Kevin Shull and Jackson Dowdy, Cole McDaniel and Kevin Dowdy, and Avery Padgett and Ethan Young. They will fish three trails: Wiregrass Student Angler Trail, East Alabama High School Trail, and Alabama High School BASS Nation, Tiger Division. Their first tournament will be September 11, Tensaw River/Delta, Stockton, Alabama.

The annual "Meet the Tigers" event was held last Thursday evening, Aug. 12, inside the gym at Elba High School. The threat of rain moved the event indoors.

During "Meet the Tigers" supporters get introduced to the football players, cheerleaders, band members, and volleyball team members - all part of the school's fall sports program.

It is also a great time for friends to gather and enjoy sharing their school spirit with one another as the anticipation of the new season begins.

CHURCH NEWS

PASTOR'S CORNER

by Jon Curtis Isaacs, Pastor
Grace Fellowship Church
24631 Hwy 87 N, Elba

As I write this article, Tropical Storm Fred is churning his way northward through the Gulf of Mexico. Warnings and statements have been issued. Across the panhandle, preparations are being made. You, the reader, has an advantage...you are now "post-Fred." As you read this, Fred has likely already moved through the wiregrass, leaving behind, either little to no effect, or unexpected devastation for our area. Sitting here, I can only speculate and choose to prepare, or not prepare, based on what forecaster's tell me.

Hurricane warnings come standard with living in south Alabama. We can all recall storms which turned at the last moment, or weakened before landfall, causing much less than the expected damage. I remember a storm which was forecast to bring torrential rain and strong winds. It was the week of our annual men's campout and the decision to cancel or continue was mine to make. I went with caution and called the event off. As if on cue, the hurricane turned sharply later that night, leaving us with some of the best camping weather all year. I also recall a storm several years ago which most thought would be little more than a rain event. But, just before making landfall, the winds intensified significantly, catching many of us unprepared. When it comes to severe weather, it's better safe than sorry.

As I thought along these lines, I couldn't help but think of Paul in Acts 27. The apostle had made his appeal to Caesar and was being transported as a prisoner to Rome. Paul warns those in charge saying, "Sirs, I perceive that this voyage will be with hurt and much damage, not only of the lading and ship, but also of our lives." I'm sure some of those who heard him must have chuckled; they didn't have time for fearmongering. With goods to transport, the sailors pressed on. But later, had it not been for Paul's prayers, they would have all perished in the mighty storm which destroyed their ship.

Friend, are you prepared for the coming storm? I don't mean Fred. Nor am I referring to the present pandemic in our land. I am speaking of the last day events Jesus spoke about in Luke 21:34-36, "And take heed to yourselves, lest at any time your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting, and drunkenness, and cares of this life, and so that day come upon you unawares. For as a snare shall it come on all them that dwell on the face of the whole earth. Watch ye therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of man."

This seems to be a neglected message today. But the return of our Lord Jesus will catch many unprepared. Like the sailors with Paul, many are too busy to listen. Friend, if you are not a believer in Christ, don't wait another moment...prepare now. Repent and follow Jesus!

Blindsided

"I sure didn't see that coming!" According to those who keep track of the changes in the English language, the term blindsided was first employed as a verb as early as 1960. It was used to describe a situation in a football game when, for example, a member of the defense came up from behind the quarterback or a receiver and tackled him before the target was aware of the tackler's presence.

The term has come to have many uses since its sports-related beginning. We've all been in situations where news blindsided us. It could have been news of a loved one's death, or it might be the sudden, unexplained breakdown of our heretofore perfectly running automobile.

We could say that Jesus sometimes used His parables to blindsides His listener. He told Simon a story that seemed to come out of thin air. By the time Jesus finished, however, there was no way Simon could escape the conviction of Jesus' words.

Do you need to be blindsided by Jesus for Him to get your attention? — C.R.B.

Our grandson Lawson came over to the house a couple of afternoons last week while his Mom was at volleyball practice and still enjoys biscuits for his afternoon snack. He started eating biscuits last year and will now turn the oven to 350 degrees before he even pulls out his laptop to play games. Yep, biscuits for afternoon snack make it official he is a country boy.

For what it is worth....

 The Elba Tigers are ready and raring to hit the field for this week's season opener and Coach Marc Sieving told me over the weekend that everyone in the program is excited and ready to get on the field. The numbers are up for the Tigers and after competing in two scrimmages over the last two weeks and after getting to hear the cheers from all their fans at last week's 'Meet the Tigers' event, everyone in the black and gold has to be ready and has to be proud to be an Elba Tiger.

 While three of four area teams will be in action this week, only two teams will actually play games, with the other competing in a jamboree. New Brockton will re-dedicate Gamecock Stadium with a non-region game against Cottonwood, while Kinston will host 3A Houston Academy in a week #1 toughie. The Gamecocks are looking to rebound from last season's disastrous one-win season and being back at home should be just what the doctor ordered, while the Bulldogs are looking to make a statement in their opener that this will be the year the 'Dogs bite is worse than their bark. Brantley will host G.W. Long for a jamboree game and will be looking to show long time former Bulldog assistant coach David Watts that he should have stayed at home. Zion Chapel was set to tangle with 1A Florida in a preseason jamboree, but COVID has caused that game to be cancelled.

 There are always dozens of storylines with the start of a season and this season is no different for teams all across the state.  Fayette County can become the first team in state history to record 700 wins, and can do it with a win next week over Winfield, while T.R. Miller is hot on its heels with 698 wins at the start of the season.  Hoover has been ranked for a record 232 straight weeks in the sports writer's poll and has been in every poll since way back in 2000.  Barbour County will enter the season with a 66 game losing streak and is only two losses away from the all-time streak of 68 straight defeats held by R.C. Hatch.  Gordo will be looking to extend its streak of 28 straight winning seasons this year and has won at least 10 games each of the last seven years.  Luverne will be looking to extend its streak of 38 straight playoff appearances in a streak that goes all the way back to 1982.  Fyffe just keeps on adding to its remarkable streaks and this year will enter the season only 10 wins away from tying the streak of 55 straight wins held by Clay County. It already owns the all-time record of 59 straight regular season wins, has won at least 10 games for ten straight years, and has scored 20 points or more in seventy straight games.

 Ye Ole Polish Prognosticator stopped by late in the week to talk football and admitted he was a little anxious to get the season started. The local guesspert had one of his best years ever last season, and while he did whine a little about having to make early-season predictions, he did leave this week's fearless forecast. Here we go again....

ELBA VS. DALEVILLE

The Pea River felines will head over near Camp Rucker on a bird hunt Friday afternoon and are already licking their lips in anticipation of an opening week feast. The birds were an easy prey a year ago after flying across the river, but may be a little harder to find at their own roost. I still think the felines will head back home well fed.

KINSTON VS. HOUSTON ACADEMY

The bulldogs from down near the county line went home hungry more than once last season after some big losses, but have a new menu this season and if the 'Dogs hold up their end they may be on a diet by early fall. I agree the bulldogs should enjoy their postgame meals more this year, but this week leftovers may be on the menu.

NEW BROCKTON VS. COTTONWOOD

The roosters from over near the bypass are back at home this season and have already warned the neighbors to expect a lot of crowing late on Friday nights. The feathered fighters have sharpened their talons and found enough locks to lock all the gates once the bears get inside this week. So, expect lots of crowing after their season opener.

Tigers are excited about season opener

The Elba Tigers will kick off the 2021 high school football season Friday night when they travel to Daleville to tangle with the 3A Daleville Warhawks.

Elba owns a 15-6 series edge over the Warhawks, and while the two rivals have split their last four contests, the Tigers posted a lopsided 50-0 win a year ago.

The Tigers are coming off a 6-4 season and return eight starters on both sides of the ball, which has sparked optimism among Tiger fans, and with more players on the roster and the core of last year's team back on the field, the season opener has been circled since last season.

"It seems like we just out in the pads yesterday," stated Elba coach Marc Sieving, "but we have been hard at work all summer in the weight room and on the practice field and the players are ready to play football. The season is a work in progress as we add and subtract plays and formations, and make changes in personnel, and this will be step #1 against what we expect to be a very good Daleville team that has a new coach and will be excited to take the field in front of their home fans."

Leading the way for the Tigers this season will be senior standout Chrystyle Caldwell. The 6-2, 215 pound linebacker-tight end has committed to the University of South Alabama, and is expected to be a force on both sides of the ball. Running back-linebacker Byron Burks (5-10, 160) is also a player to watch this season, while linebackers Peyton McCart (6-2, 175) and Collin Sauls (5-9, 200) are expected to help solidify the defense.

Up front, the Elba defensive line will be anchored by returning starters Kyle Smith (5-10, 240) and Eliandro Gomez (5-8, 210), and the duo will join forces with Sauls and Whit Shehee (5-9, 190) to anchor an offensive line that returns four starters.

Elba seems to always be loaded with speedy backs, and that will be the case again this season as JT Coleman (5-11, 160) and Alvin Henderson (5-10, 165) will give the Tigers a big play threat every time one of the speedsters touches the ball.

"We are all excited to be playing football," said Sieving. "It has been a grilling summer for us all, but everyone has had a good attitude, attendance has been good at practice and the plyers are a little tired of bearing themselves up every day and want to hit someone else. As far as Friday night's game at Daleville, are going over there to win the football game. We don't really that much about Daleville, but we do know they have a really good new head coach and a quality staff that is building the program the right way. As always, our primary concern is about us. We need to be able to execute what we do and be solid on offense, defense and in the kicking game."

"We feel good about where we are on offense and should go into the game healthy," added Sieving. "We are not going into the game looking to save anything for future games or to hide anything from Opp. We will do what it takes to be successful and use every tool in the shed to put points on the scoreboard. Over on defense we have made a few adjustments both in personnel and in schemes, and feel good about where we are. We made some changes to make us better in all areas, and expect to have a good defensive team. The fact we really don't have any idea just what the new staff at Daleville will do on offense will definitely challenge the defense, but we will do what we do best and make changes as needed."

"We are also excited about the kicking game," said Coach Sieving. "Our kicker has been a little under the weather for a couple of days, but we are confident he can handle extra-point duties and will also give us a chance to kick a few field goals. Our return game should be strength with JT Coleman, and Alvin Henderson returning kickoffs and Byron Burks and Peyton McCart working on punt returns. We are looking for consistency in our punting game, and with Chrystyle Caldwell handling the punting chores we feel good."

"We will be a little small in the offensive and defensive lines," added Sieving, "but we will be gritty and feel like we have a rotation that can get the players some rest. We have emphasized techniques in the line and are confident the guys up front are ready to get after it."

Daleville struggled to a 1-9 record last season, its first losing season after five straight winning campaigns, and while the Warhawks return just three starters from a year ago, all three are being billed as legitimate college prospects, led by Jeremiah Moore.

Elba High School Alumni Association's golf tourney fundraiser set for Sept. 18

The Elba High School Alumni Association's annual golf tournament fundraiser will be held Saturday, Sept. 18, at the Elba Country Club. This is during Elba's "Homecoming" weekend.

Over the past six years, the Elba High School Alumni Association has been able to provide twelve scholarships totaling $18,000 for Elba High School seniors — that's two scholarships per year at $1,500 each! Furthermore, over the years, the association has assisted monetarily in projects for Elba City Schools such as the addition of a welcome sign at the Moore, a junior, will play on both sides of the ball as he will start at fullback and linebacker, and the 6-3, 275 pound three-year starter is already on everyone's watch list. Joining Moore as leaders on the field will be defensive/offensive lineman Zacory Culver (6-0, 295) and quarterback Omarion Pinkney (6-1, 175).

"The heat will be a factor Friday night," said Sieving, "but it will be hot on both sides of the field and we have to battle through it. It has really been hot the last two weeks and we have a plan in place to help the players stay hydrated. We have a lot of guys that go both ways, and they have really worked hard on conditioning and will try to give everyone a couple of breaks. Players expend a great deal of energy, and it will be vital to use some extra bodies."

"All the players and everyone in the program at Daleville feel they have something to prove after last season," added Sieving, "and we know they are going to be physical and are going to get after us on every play. We expect a four quarter battle."

Kickoff for the season opener at Daleville High School will be at 7:00 pm, and Elba fans are encouraged to follow directions to visitors parking area.

New Brockton and Kinston to kick off season on Friday night with non-region home games

The 2021 high school football season will kick off this week for team across the area, with New Brockton and Kinston hosting season openers, while Zion Chapel and Brantley will hit the field for preseason jamborees.

Following is a preview of this week's action:

Cottonwood at New Brockton

The New Brockton Gamecocks will be back at the friendly confines of Gamecock Stadium for the first time in over a year when they host the Cottonwood Bears.

The Gamecocks, which struggled to a 1-7 record a year ago, are looking for their first region title since 1999 and are looking to jump back into the elite teams in their classification after posting a combined record of 17-24 over the past four years.

New Brockton trails 10-14 in the series, but has won five straight games and in that span has scored an average of 34.4 points a game and allowed 14.4 points an outing.

Senior quarterback Kaden Cupp is back to lead the Gamecocks offense and last season was a dual threat as he averaged almost 100 yards per game both rushing and passing. Joining Cupp in the backfield will be Jamarus Brown, while up front the Gamecocks are looking for big Bradley Adkinson (6-4, 330) to lead the way. Over on defense, the duo of Drew Cashin and re Boland is expected to be dominant from their linebackers posts.

The Cottonwood Bears have suffered through six straight losing seasons and during the drought has posted a combined record of 18-41. The strength of the Bears this season will be along the line of scrimmage, where their center tips the scales at 265, the guards weigh in at 252 and 235, and the tackles come in at 298 and 235. Not to be outdone, Cottonwood has two backs that weigh in at 235 and 225.

Houston Academy at Kinston

The Kinston Bulldogs will be looking to open the season with a bang Friday night when they host the 3A Houston Academy Raiders.

The Bulldogs own a 6-13 series record against the Raiders, with the last Kinston win coming back in 1997.

The Bulldogs have a roster that includes 20 juniors and seniors and is filled with experience. Cale Sumblin (6-4, 220) has made the switch from tight end to quarterback and is expected to pump life into the passing attack, while Jeb Crosby (5-10, 165) will be the 'go to' man in the backfield when the Bulldogs stay on the ground. Twins David Free (508, 205) and John Free

(5-8, 205) are back to anchor the offensive line at guard, while massive tackles Connor Tew (6-4, 280) and Caden Carter (6-4, 305) are expected to help dominate the line of scrimmage.

Kinston returns eight starters on defense, and is expected to be a stingy unit against any and all challengers.

Houston Academy struggled to post a 3-7 record a year ago, has a 4-16 record the past two years and has managed only 11 wins the last four seasons.

In jamboree action, Brantley will host G.W. Long. Zion Chapel's jamboree game was cancelled due to COVID safety concerns.

Youth dove hunts to begin in Alabama on Sept. 4th

The Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources' (ADCNR) Division of Wildlife and Freshwater Fisheries (WFF) provides several youth dove hunt opportunities throughout the state each fall. A simple hunting setup combined with a fun, family-friendly atmosphere makes WFF's youth dove hunts an ideal way to introduce young people to the outdoors.

Registration for this year's hunts opened at 8 a.m. on August 16, 2021. Although the hunts are free, online registration is required. The first youth dove hunts of the 2021 season begin on September 4. For more information including a complete hunt schedule, visit www.outdooralabama.com/youth-hunting/youth-dove-hunts.

To participate in the hunts, youth hunters must be age 15 or younger and accompanied by an adult at least 21 years old (or a parent) who has a valid state hunting license, a Harvest Information Program (HIP) stamp and a Conservation ID number.

Alabama's youth dove hunt events are held in open fields and staffed by WFF personnel, which encourages a safe, secure environment for both parents and participants. Before each hunt, a short welcome session with reminders on hunting safety will be conducted.

All hunters are encouraged to wear eye protection and earplugs. Doves are migratory and covered by the Migratory Bird Treaty Act. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has special rules and regulations that apply to dove hunting which all hunters must follow.
